

Classroom Expectations:

These expectations are similar to what is expected in a workplace setting.

Students are expected to:

- “Be nice.”
- Develop good listening skills. Students will learn from him and from each other.
- Act respectfully towards him and each other. Put downs, teasing and swearing are not allowed.
- Express tolerance. Each student learns differently. Learn to value other students for their differences. The world and our class would be boring if we were all the same.
- Work cooperatively as part of a team.
- Be cordial to each other by saying “Please”, “Thank you”, and “You’re Welcome”.
- Come to class on time, prepared and organized for each class. It is suggested to use an agenda book or some other method of managing classroom responsibilities.
- Stay on task. Stay focused on classroom goals. Manage your time. The result will be high-quality work. (A potential employer’s dream)

Students should expect the teacher to:

- “Be nice.”
- Create a positive learning environment that is entertaining and academically challenging.
- Act respectfully in the classroom.
- Be reasonable and fair.
- Communicate progress or concerns.
- Be prepared for each class.
